Coordinates: 32.102894°N 34.799782°E

Yitzhak Rabin Center

The Yitzhak Rabin Center is a library and research center in Tel Aviv, Israel, built in memory of assassinated Israeli prime minister Yitzhak Rabin.

The Yitzhak Rabin Center, designed by the Israeli architect, Moshe Safdie, sits on a hill commanding a panoramic view of Hayarkon Park and Tel Aviv, near the Eretz Israel Museum, the Palmach Museum, Tel Aviv University and Beth Hatefutsoth. The inauguration ceremony took place in November 2005, on the tenth anniversary of Rabin's assassination.[1]

Yitzhak Rabin Center

Contents

- History
- Museum
- References
- External links

History

The center was erected on the foundations of a top secret power station known as "Reading G" or "J'ora." Built in 1954-1956 to supply power in the event of an enemy bombing, it was financed in part by the German reparations agreement.

Museum

A permanent exhibition at the Rabin Center is dedicated to the history of society and democracy in Israel with the life of Yitzhak Rabin serving as a connecting thread between the various sections.[2]

References

1. Yitzhak Rabin Center (http://www.rabincenter.org.il/english/aboutthecenter/pages/thelocation.aspx)
2. Rabin Center Museum (http://www.rabincenter.org.il/english/museum/pages/default.aspx)

External links

- Media related to Rabin Center at Wikimedia Commons

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Yitzhak_Rabin_Center&oldid=955982965"

This page was last edited on 10 May 2020, at 22:00 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.